FROM
E. S. SALMON.

Oct. 8. 1913.

Dear Prof. Dr. Saccardo.

Very many thanks for the specimens of Humulus Lupulus safely received, and for the promise of some ripe seeds this autumn. When you send them, will you kindly inform me if it is a fact that so far as ~~is~~ is known the Hop has never been cultivated in Italy, and that therefore there can be no doubt that the plant you send is the true wild species Humulus Lupulus, and not any descendent of a cultivated variety.

With kind regards and many thanks,
Yours Sincerely,
E. S. Salmon.
